Program Description

Questar III's Therapeutic Youth Program (TYP) serves students who have mental health disabilities which interfere with school success. Students work towards achieving a Regents diploma in a highly supportive environment. Clinical staff provide both counseling and assistance to families in making appropriate connections to community mental health services. TYP includes: child psychiatric consultation, social work and psychology support, behavior specialist consultation, physical education or adaptive physical education, access as needed to crisis intervention, and transition planning services.

Note: TYP classes are 6 students per 1 teacher and 1 teaching assistant (6:1:1). Classes are full day and run September - June with an extended year option available.
